

ONLY NATURAL

"Assorted surfaces and earthy tones create an inviting, contemporary kitchen area which works in both function and form. The desire for lustrous finishes has been indulged with reflective polyurethane surfaces and Quantum Quartz benchtops. Married with a glass splashback, this brings plenty of light into the room, creating a heightened sense of space. Soft, warm tones bring a casual touch to the classic open design and textures are artfully put together. Timber-grain panelling is applied vertically on the island and back wall shelving to enhance the natural ambience and bring visual interest to the immense space. The island draws the dividing line between the living and cooking areas. Designed for entertaining, there is enough room for family and friends to gather along its expanse, which is equally perfect for preparing meals thanks to the easy-clean surfaces. When it comes to storage, no space is wasted. Thoughtful touches include integrated appliances, full-length cabinets and a back wall full of drawers. The result is a kitchen that strikes a natural balance for today's modern family."
